No challenges really

Depends on which country am I traveling to ... if it was a foreign country maybe sbout halal food

It depends on the type of trip. If it to visit, it is to really discover a new place, if it is to relax, then be able to really let go !

To find relevant and cost-friendly ways of transport (bus, train).

Finding cheap travel and accomodation

Transport

Getting lost; making choices between many recommendations and areas/ things to do - being overwhelmed with choices and struggling to decide, especially on shorter trips.

I would easily say choosing good local restaurants/ finding genuine local food is the hardest for me.

not knowing the local language, finding directions

Budget

Navigation and Translation

avoiding children, families and crowded areas

Transport and expensive price restaurant

To find the nice but not touristic places

Safe and relaxing

No AI, THANKS.

If working well and providing relevant info, an AI assistant would be good

Find possible hotels for a certain budget and radius to the city center, using AirBnB, Booking.com and Google Maps as sources

Restaurant and food recommendations based on distance, reviews, how local and genuine it is, especially if there is any « must try » traditional dish.

Show local events going on during my trip, exhibitions, bar/ nightlife events and music.

translate voice in real time and text from websites, camera or picture

No

Info about local transport systems that may not be on Google maps

Link to meetups for internationals.
Maybe a list of very touristy activities to avoid which offer little value for the price. I guess there are "tourist traps" everywhere.
